DICTATOR WOULD VISIT VERA CRUZ

Desire Complete Mediation Within American Lines is Statement.

HE FEARS TREACHERY.

Huerta is Convinced That His Family is Unsafe in Capital—Apprehensive of Assassination.

Vera Cruz, June 9.—Dictator Huerta, his minister of war, General Blanquet, and the remnants of his cabinet areconsidering the advisability of coming to Vera Cruz tocomplete mediation negotiations.

Information from a source such as to make itauthentic is that the plan now under consideraton is for Blanquet first to come here, in company with theBrazilian minister, for a conference with Brigadier General Funston regarding the nature of Huerta's reception, and whether he would be welcomed within the American lines.

It was known that the Brazilian minister in Mexico City either has been or will be requested by the dictator to sound Washington regarding his entrance into the Amreican lines.

From a Mexican who has been in complete touch with the highest officials in Mexico City, it is learned that Huerta has become convinced that it is unsafe for hs family to remain longer in the capital, but that he cannot device a way to get them out of the city. He has been informed that the rebels under Dr. Commacho are well aware of his deire to leave the ruin of his government, and that they have made preparations to wreck trains on either railroad out of the capital.

Huerta fears treachery on the part ofsome of the few whom he would have to trust, if he decided to leave with his family, might give the rebels their chance to assassinate him.

Washington, June 9.—Carranza's reply to the invitation to participate in mediation is expected to be sent to the A. B. C. envoys today. Constitutionalist representatives here admit that it accepts the invitation "on his own trems," and they are iclined to wonder whether the reply would be satisfactory to the mediators.

It was stated here today that everything is now ready for the drafting of the protocol. The United States commissioners have communicated proposal to the mediators which differs in several respects from the draft approved by Huerta. But, according to Secretary Bryan, the points of difference are such as not to present any insurmountable obstacle. He believes that the Huertista representatives will accept the changes suggested by this government.

By order of the Board of Directors, notice is hereby given that there will be a special meeting of the stockholders of the Seminole Land & Investment Company, Incorporated at the principal offices of the Company, 111 S. Fairfax street, Alexandria, Virginia, at 11 o'cock A. M. on Tuesday, June 23rd, 1914. for the purpose of voting upon a resolution of the Board of Directors passed at the meeting of the same held May 4th 1914, to the effect that $152,400 of the capital stock of the corporation be retired, and that he capital stock of the Company be reduced from $550,000 to $397,600.

NEWS OF THE DAY

Theodore Roosevelt arrived in Madrid yesterday afternoon. There was a small crowd gathered at the station, including a number of police in plain clothes.

Two and a half inches of snow fell in one section of Paris yesterday evening. The air had in it a wintry chill, the temperature being 40 degrees.

More than thirty fishing vessels have been sunk off the coast of New Brunswick or are missing as a result of a terrific storm that has been raging for more than twenty-four hours, and it is feared that more than 100 men have lost their lives.

Night riders have begun their work again in western Kentucky. Women, men, and children have been whipped with switches after being bound to trees. Threats have been made against others, and peace officers have been threatened with death. Whole communities are in terror. Fully 100 tobacco plant beds have been destroyed by bodies of armed men in the last two weeks.

Colonel Joseph I. Keifer, of Washington, had a narrow escape from death last night, when lightning struck an umbrella in his hand in Takoma Park. The bolt of lightning, said Col. Keifer, passed down the handle of his umbrella, struck the cover of an adjacent manhole, tore off the cover and passed through the conduit. Colonel Keifer was badly stunned but unhurt.

Charles M. Schneider, formerly associated with his father, Martin Schneider, known all over the United States as the originator of the famous "hard crab feast," has purchased Cohen's buffet at 416 12th street, northwest, opposite the Raleigh Hotel. Mr. Schneider is now renovating the entire building from garret to cellar, and when completed will have a first class restaurant and buffet to which he invites Alexandrians to make it their headquarters while in Washington. Everything will be done for the comfort and convenience of all Virginians. Whenever in Washington call at Schneider's.

In a series of decisions yesterday the Supreme Court outlined material which court attendants said might advantageously be embodied in a new textbook on the power of Congress to regulate interstate commerce. The Shreveport rate case was the most important and far reaching, and attracted the most attention. The other cases which led the court to analyze and discuss the powers conferred on Congress under the commerce clause of the Constitution were the Los Angeles switching case and the Georgia headlight case. The opinions were construed to be an invitation to Congress to go further than it has in regulating traffic even within a State where it has a bearing upon interstate commerce.

Fire Aboard Launch.

Washington, June 9.—A gasoline fire aboard the launch Perfect Lady, one of the local fleet of pleasure craft, belonging to E. L. Wilson, of Washington, which occurred off Colonial Beach Saturday night about 10 o'clock, so badly damaged the launch that it sank. Mr. and Mrs. Wilson, who were aboard, had a narrow escape from serious injury, if not death.

JAVINS—In sad and loving remembrance o four dear Father, ANDREW J. JAVINS, who departed this life two years ago today, June 9th, 1912.

I can never forget the morning,
As we tood beside his bed,
A kind friend smoothed his gentle brow
And whispered he is dead.

We may not know why death should come
To take our Father from our home,
But though our eyes with tears be dim,
The Lord knows best, we'll trust in him.

Father, 'twas strange you were called so sudden,
Without saying to one of us goodby,
We know you were thinking of us all
When God called on you to die.

By his loving children.

TO EXAMINE CLAIM OF WEST VIRGINIA

U. S. Supreme Court Refers Papers to Special Master Littlefield.

MATTER OF INTEREST.

Decision Favors West Virginia as to Investigation of Offset Claim of That State.

Richmond, June 9.—The United States Supreme Court, in a decision rendered yesterday, added a tangle to the West Virginia debt litigation by referring the new claims of West Virginia for a share in Virgnia's assets to a master in chancery for investigation and report. At the same time, the court took the determination of the amount of interest owed by West Virginia on her share of the state debt in 1863 out of the hands of the two State commissions and refered it also to the master for settlement.

This decision, according to Attorney General Pollard, means simply that the Supreme Court deems West Virginia's new claims worthy of investigation. This is in a measure a victory for West Virginia, but the reference of the interest question to the master is a distinct victory for Virgina in that it is a recognition of the validity of Virginia's claim for interest, a claim which the West Virginia Debt Commission refused to allow in its conferences with the Virginia commission.

Charles E. Littlefield, of New York, who originally heard the evidence in the litigation and established West Virginia's portion of the State debt in 1863, was named yesterday as the master to investigate the new evidence and determine the amount of interest due. He is to report to the court at the fall term.

According to the figures submitted to the Supreme Court in March by the West Virginia commission, the liabilities of the Commonwealth of Virginia in 1863 amounted to $80,563,861.56, and the assets to $20,810,357.98. These assets, West Virginia claim, took the shape of stocks, bonds, securities and other property acquired out of the common funds of the old Comonwealth prior to the dissolution. Since the court fixed the equitable proportions of the two States in the debt at 76 per cent for Virginia and 23 per cent for West Virginia, then the same ratio should obtain in the division of the common assets, claims West Virginia.

On this basis of computation, West Virginia's portion of the $20,810,357.98 of assets of the old Commonwealth would amount to $4,855,312.18. This, asserts West Virginia, should be deducted from its apportioned share of the liabilities, $7,182,507.46, leaving an excess of $2,327,195.28 of liabilities over assets. This $2,327,195.28, it is claimed, represents West Virginia's real debt to Virgina.

It is this newly raised question of a division of the old Commonwealth's assets which will be determined by the master.

BOLT STOPS THE DANCE

Panic on Shore Pier as Flagstaff is Hit by Lightning.

Atlantis City, June 9—During a terrific thunder storm yesterday lightning struck a flagstaff on the Steeplechase Pier, setting fire to the structure and causing a panic among dancers and merrymakers. They fled in disorder to the Boardwalk, and their shrieks brought a great crowd to the scene. It was quickly learned, however that no one had been injured, and pier attaches soon extinguished the blaze with fire extinguishers.

The lightning struck within a few feet of an orchestra playing for the dancers, and the musicians were hurled in all directions. The bolt continued down the flagstaff through an electric transformer into the surf, and no one was seriously injured. The storm was of brief duration, and their terror allayed, the crowds resumed their merrymaking.

Washington, June 9—The Supreme Court of the United States has upheld the constitutionality of a Virginia law requiring companies mining coal or manufacuring iron or steel to pay employes at least monthly, in money, and make it unlawful to issue script unless redeemable in money at its face value.

RABBI SHOT TO DEATH.

Murderer First Fired at Woman and she is Probably Fatally Wounded.

Richmond, June 9.—Rabbi Louis Erahansky, 38 years old, was shot to death in front of his home, No. 643 North Marshall street, last night, and Mrs. Fanny Einenbaum, 36 years old, was shot and probably fatally injured at the same place, by a man giving his name as Thomas Burns, 64 years old, whom the police believe was jealous of Mrs. Einenbaum. Following the shooting Burns was chased by an angry mob several blocks, and finally overtaken and overpowered.

The shooting is surrounded by mystery, as little is known of Burns and no person in the neighborhood remembers having seen him before.

Holds up Officer and Then Shoots Man.

Squads of police from Richmond were rushed to the scene, assisted by posses of citizens in automobiles, and a thorough search of Chesterfield and Henrico counties is being carried on.

ANOTHER FIRE IN WASHINGTON

Spectacular Blaze at Early Morn in Warehouse and Stable.

SOUND THREE ALARMS.

Horses and Mules Burn to Death—Considerable Alarm—Apprehension of Disastrous Results.

Washington, June 9.—Nine engine companies and three trucks were called out to fight a spectacular three-alarm fire that destroyed the big warehouse nad stable of J. E. Dyer & Co., in the rear of the Dyer wholesale store at 3330-3332 M street, Georgetown, early this morning.

For five hours the firemen battled a terrific blaze to keep it from spreading to the M street section of Georgetown. The big warehouse and stable were gone when the first companies reached the scene, and they turned thir attention to theDyer store and idjoining propery to keep the fire from them. In this they were successful.

Five horses and two mules were burned to death in the stable. Only four horses were rescued. When the firemen reached the scene efforts to get the remaining horses out were impossible.

The origin of the blaze is a mystery. It started in the far southwestern corner of thebig store and warehouse that extends from M street back to thecanal. This is an isolated spot, where few persons pass at night.

LAST APPEAL OF THE COMMITTEE

Curtain Will Fall Upon Hospital Campaign Next Monday Night.

HELP OF OUTSIDERS.

Entertainments to Aid Movement—Tickets for "Tatters" Sold Rapidly in and Out of City.

As the campaign is nearng its end the many Alexandrians who have not contributed to the hospital fund, it seems that they should identify themselves with this movement so that when the curtain rings down on next Monday night, and the committee turn over the results of their work to the Board of Trustees that as near the $50,000 as possible should have been realized.

Especially is this so when it will be seen from the list below that our outside friends are helping us. Contributions received this morning came from Mrs. M. S. Wallace of the Theological Seminary, Fairfax County $7.50 of which was collected by Mrs. Jack Howard. She also sent in $10.00 from Miss Caroline Mason, a former resident of Colross in this city.

All who desire to spend a pleasant evening and at the same time to add the hospital building fund should not fail to purchase tickets for "Tatters" The ladies and gentlemen of the Washington Dramatic Club who will present this play are making strenuous efforts to put the play into such shape that will give great satisfaction to all those who have the opportunity of seeing it.

It is a pleasure to be able to state that the tickets are being sold very rapidly and alarge proportion of the reserve seats have already been taken. Reserve seat tickets can be secured at Warfields Drug Store and tickets from any member of the committee and lady Board of Managers. It is expected that between fifty and one hundred visitors will attend this play, coming from Washington City.

The Ladies Aid Society of the Memorial Chapel of Braddock gave a most pleasant entertainment last night for the benefit of the hospital fund. While the attendance was large the storm interfered with its success.

QUIET ELECTION TODAY

Judges Kill Time From Sunrise to Sunset Awaiting Appearance of Voters.

The serenity around the polls today was unsurpassed at any previous election. Those conducting it have not had enough to do to occupy their minds, and the day has ,naturally, seemed long to them.

Conditions around Armory Hall, where First warders cast their ballots, were similar on north Royal street, Odd Fellows' Hall, and about the old Friendship engine house.

Suffragans were for hours few and far between. As there were no tickets to scratch, there was lethargy.

The many persons who are usually found at the polls when contests are on were conspicuous by their absence, and there were no carriages with runners darting to and fro throughout the city transporting voters.

Many men had to be awakened to the fact that the general election was in progress and that it was the duty of every qualified member of the democratic party to cast his vote.

While the voting was by no means active during the early portion of the day, many, it is expected, will delay casting their ballots until the last hours.

The total number of votes cast at 4 o'clock was as follows:

First ward	71
Second ward	95
Third ward	64
Fourth ward	61
Total	291

REFRESHING RAIN.

Two Hours' Thunder Storm Prevailed in City Last Night.

The hot weather which set in Sunday was followed last night by a refreshing rain, accompanied by thunder and lightning, which brought about cooler conditions before morning. The lightning was incessant, it flashing from all quarters of the heavens at times. There were but few heavy crashes of thunder, although the electricity was brilliant, making pretty displays in the northern skies.

The showers hereabouts were copious, and the north wind brought relief from the oppressive conditions which prevailed during the early part of the night.

The weather today has been threatening with a more comfortable temperature.

INDIGNATION AGAINST WOMEN.

The people of England have been rendered desperate by the continued acts of violence upon the part of suffragettes. The increasing cases of arson, desecration of property, insults to officials (the king and queen being the latest victims), the invasion of churches and the destruction of works of art in public galleries, have caused bitterness against the perpetrators of such outrages notwithstanding the fact that they are women.

Ministers of the gospel are joining in movements for taking heroic maesures to bring such acts of vandalism to a stop and they suggest that the women should be allowed to die when they enter into hunger strikes.

The British government is about to adopt a measure which has for its object the indemification of prison officials who may allow women to die who refuse to eat.

The actions of English women engaged in the militant movement is most discouraging to the friends of equal suffrage on this side of the ocean.

HOBSON BLAMES LIQUOR MEN.

Richmond Pearson Hobson is fighting hard to escape passing into an eclipse. During the past few weeks he has been delivering addresses in Virginia. His hobby is statewide prohibition. He made his appearance in a Presbyterian Church in Petersburg a few days ago and made an address in which he alleged that the liquor interests were responsible for his defeat in Alabama when he essayed to become a Senator from that State.

While others have attributed Hobson's setback to the fact that his opponent, Mr. Underwood, was antagonistic to President Wilson's stand concerning free tolls to American coastwise ships, and his election was a rebuke to the executive, the great majority attribute the snowing down of Hobson's pretensions to the fact that he had the emerity to enter into a gladitorial combat with a giant, and that the outcome was inevitable from the start.

The fact is, the people of Alabama did not want Hobson as their representative in the Senate of the United States and preferred Underwood for reasons not only apparent to themselves but to the entire country. The liquor question had nothing to do with his defeat nor had the policy of the President.

When the services of a would-be public servant are declined, the man who has come out second-best in the conflict is prone to look around to see why another man should have been preferred. There is but one answer to the question, the people did not want the loser.

In a recent political contest in Alexandria a friend of the defeated candidate has asked the latter how he explained the fact that he emerged from the little end of the horn. The man who lost out, very sensibly replied, "Because a large majority of voters wanted the other man."

It was so with Hobson, and that should be an end to all argument.

SENT POISONED CANDY.

Woman Confesses She Was Angered by Unfriendly Reports.

Richmond, Cal., June 9.—Mrs. George Burke Simmons, of Winslow, Ariz., confessed to the police here today that she had mailed a box of poisoned candy to Mrs. William H. Dagg and her two daughters at San Diego, Cal., about a month ago. She said Mrs. Dagg spread unfriendly reports about her. Formerly the two women were friends.

The candy was received by Mrs. Dagg and tasted by her daughters. They were made violently ill. A chemist examined it and declared that two pieces were sufficient to cause death.

Mrs. Simmons was taken to San Diego last night.

A resolution calling upon all Catholics to take no part in the Panama-Pacific exposition because of the appointment of former Mayor Ernesto Nathan, of Rome, as the official representative of the Italian government, has been unanimously adopted by the Laymen's League for Retreats and Social Studies. Nathan is of Jewish birth and it is alleged he has shown hostility to the Pope.

A PEEP AT MEXICO

The Country's Area Now and What It Was Originally.

HAS LOST A VAST TERRITORY.

Nearly a Million Square Miles of Its Land Have Been Added to the United States—Still a Big Country, Though, and Has an Enormous Coast Line.

It is interesting to note that the area of Mexico is practically as great as that of the United States between the Mississippi river and the Atlantic coast, the great lakes and the gulf of Mexico, varying in altitude from sea level to 18,000 feet. Its climate is affected by these elevations and by a range of eighteen degrees of latitude. Twelve hundred miles is the distance traversed in passing south from Juarez, on the northern boundary, to the capital, and 900 miles more to the southeastern boundary. The gulf of Mexico and Caribbean sea coast line extends for 1,700 miles, while the Pacific ocean and gulf of California touch 4,000 miles of Mexican coast.

Prior to 1836 Mexico, as a Spanish colony, and the United States covered approximately equal areas, but the Texas secession and the result of the Mexican war added nearly a million square miles to our territory, and the extent of Mexico now is less than one-fourth that of continental United States. Mexico has still territorial expanse equal to the aggregate of Austria-Hungary, Germany, France, Great Britain and Ireland. The total area of the republic, 767,000 square miles, is less than that of Texas, California, Montana, New Mexico and Arizona combined.

The average density of population of Mexico approximates twenty per square mile, the most thickly populated parts, outside of the federal district, being the states of Tlaxcala and Mexico, the former being less than Delaware in size and of about the same density of population and the latter being nearly as large as New Hampshire, but with more than twice the number of inhabitants. The federal district, molded after the District of Columbia, but of eight times greater area, is surrounded by the state of Mexico, the large population of the capital, 470,000, materially aiding in bringing the average to more than 1,200 per square mile.

During nearly 300 years subsequent to the conquest by Cortes, Spain dominated Mexico. A century ago a bold effort for freedom was started, which eventually resulted in the republic of Mexico of today. More than half of the first century of Mexican independence was abortive, one coterie after another coming into temporary power and a number of those acclaimed rulers after brief regimes meeting ignominious death at the hands of the people they sought to govern.

The form of government adopted by Mexico follows in general that of the United States, having executive, judicial and legislative divisions. Each of the twenty-seven states is represented in two houses of congress, composed of senators and deputies. Congress holds two sessions each year for limited periods. Each state has its governor and legislature and is subdivided into districts or counties, over each of which a jefe politico is placed, the districts having subsidiary municipalities with magistrates, presiding officials and councils. The so called autocratic feature of the government may be largely due to the fact that governors hold office with approval of the president, that jefe politicos have similar relations with the governors and that the officers of the municipalities are generally controlled by the jefe politicos.

The church and state are independent, and congress cannot pass laws prohibiting or establishing any religion. Of the 16,000,000 inhabitants two-fifths claim direct descent from ancient tribes or families which are accepted as the basis of Mexican history, two-fifths are of mixed native and foreign blood, the remainder being classed under the common appellation of "foreign."

The City of Mexico, 264 miles by rail west of Vera Cruz and 7,400 feet altitude, is reached by two rail routes climbing from the hot lands through difficult mountain passes, one of which closely follows the trail taken by Cortes in 1519, by General Winfield Scott with American troops in 1847 and over which fifteen years later the invading French troops passed. It is the most populous city. One-half of the railroad mileage of the country is between sea level and 5,000 feet and about an equal amount between 5,000 and 10,000 feet. —From National Geographic Society in Washington.

Ancient Gold.

In olden times gold was obtained abundantly from the rivers of Asia. The sands of Pactolus, the golden fleece secured by the argonauts, the yellow metal of Ophir, the fable of King Midas, all illustrate the eastern origin of gold. Alexander the Great brought nearly $500,000,000 of gold from Persia. Gold also came from Arabia and from the middle of Africa by way of the Nile.

MUSICAL HEADS AND FACES.

They Have a Shape All Their Own, Says a German Scientist.

That all musicians are "freaks," so far as their physical appearance goes is the opinion of Dr. Paul Sohn, the German scientist. Not only this, but he finds that, regardless of their race or nationality, all persons of marked musical ability show a close resemblance to one another in the shape of their heads and faces. The head and countenance of the typical musician often look very much like those of the lion or the sphinx.

The peculiar shape of a musician's head is due, Dr. Sohn believes, to the gradual expansion of the sound center of his brain and the consequent change in the conformation of his skull. This is why the heads of Wagner, Beethoven, Robert Schumann, Richard Strauss and other great musicians all have an eccentric, abnormal and sometimes fantastic appearance. A musician's sound center develops abnormally because it is there that everything in his life finds its motive.

The musical head and face are of a primitive type, because musical genius is a reversion to the time when men communicated their ideas by means of more or less inarticulate sounds. But, although the musician's physical appearance is barbarous in its lack of beauty and regularity, it contains no hint of degeneracy.

The typical musical head is characterized by the horizontal breadth of the forehead, the broad nose and chin and the wide, extremely mobile mouth. The brow often overhangs greatly, as was so notably the case with Beethoven. The eyes are lustrous, but bear a separated, dreamy expression. The hands are broad and strong.

"Musicians," says Dr. Sohn, "are absolute slaves to their sense of sound, and it is this that not only affects their physical appearance, but makes them mentally so nervous and excitable. The main feature of the musical intellect is that mental excitement seeks a different outlet from that in the case of ordinary men."—New York American.

MARK TWAIN AS A LINGUIST.

His Grim Vow After He Firmly Decided to Learn French.

When Mark Twain was a young reporter, working on the San Francisco Call, he made up his mind to learn the French language. He did not want to go to the expense of a teacher, and so he bought a grammar and conversation book and set to work. Before breakfast he pored over the lessons; late in the evening he was at it again, and every available moment of the day he employed with equal assiduity.

He soon began to look about for opportunities to make use of his new accomplishment. Accordingly he began to eat at a French restaurant once a week.

One day as he and his roommate were coming out of the restaurant they found on the sidewalk just outside the door a Frenchman. He was asking first one passerby and then another the way to a certain street, but no one understood him. That was Mark's chance. The Frenchman looked at him with wistful eyes and began to talk. Mark listened attentively. Three or four times the stranger was compelled to repeat his question, then Mark seemed to catch his drift. But he had scarcely spoken half a dozen words in reply, when the Frenchman fell to the sidewalk in a dead faint.

The true cause of the stranger's fainting may never be known. Very likely he was famished, and perhaps he had been put out of this very restaurant because of his seedy appearance. But, whatever the cause, the joke was on Mark for once. Mark's roommate was careful enough of his friendship not to tell the incident at the office of the Morning Call, but he teased the rising humorist a good deal about it. When the fun had lasted long enough Mark set his jaw, and with unlimited determination written on his features announced, "I'll learn French if it kills every Frenchman in the country!"—Youth's Companion.

Why a Lake Is Like a Person.

A lake resembles a living being in many ways. It has a pulse. Its surface rises and falls rhythmically. It has a circulation. Its water not only ebbs and flows, but there are undercurrents by which the life giving oxygen is carried to organisms which dwell in its depths. It does muscular work. The shores are eroded, and wharves are moved by the ice pressure. It digests food, and some lakes, sad to say, sometimes have indigestion. And so we might continue the comparison and tell of its smiles and frowns and the music of its waves upon the shore.—Atlantic Monthly.

Blended.

Sir Arthur Conan Doyle, the creator of Sherlock Holmes, once said that he wrote his first book at the age of six.

It appears to have been a story of adventure of the most exciting kind.

"There was a man in it and a tiger," Sir Arthur said. "I forget which of the two was the hero of the story, but it didn't matter which because about the time the tiger met the man they became blended into one!"

Health Restored by Eckman's Alterative

Glandular trouble, very frequently diagnosed by physicians as "Tuberculosis in the Glands," has been found to yield to Eckman's Alterative when other treatments did not bring relief. Eckman's Alterative is a medicine which during the past fifteen years has brought about many recoveries even in a number of supposed hopeless cases. Read this:—

252 Lauriston St., Phila., Pa.

"Gentlemen: In March, 1909, my doctor pronounced my case "Tuberculosis in the Glands," and a number of operations in a hospital failed to benefit me. In the meantime a friend of mine advised Eckman's Alterative. The wounds in my neck were still open and in a frightful condition when I started to take it. After using two bottles I found I was improving, having gained weight, could eat and was able to sleep. I continued using it until I was well, which was in November, 1910. On November 11, 1910, I started to work, and since that time I have not lost one day's work through sickness. I highly recommend Eckman's Alterative to anyone who is suffering from Gland trouble." (Affidavit) JOSEPH B. WHITE.

Eckman's Alterative has been proven by many years' test to be most efficacious for severe Throat and Lung Affections, Bronchitis, Bronchial Asthma, Stubborn Colds and in upbuilding the system. Contains no narcotics, poisons or habit-forming drugs. Ask for booklet telling of recoveries and write to Eckman Laboratory, Philadelphia, Pa., for evidence. For sale by all leading druggists
